BARHAM-KOONDROOK BRIDGE

Photograph supplied by Raymond Hollingsworth. It shows his grandfather, Llewellyn Hollingsworth, at work on the bridge. Lew was bridge caretaker from 1924 to 1938.
Source: The Barham-Koondrook Historical Society

Chainsaw sculptor Kevin Gilders, working on a redgum statue of Sir John Monash in October 2003. The completed work was unveiled at the centenary celebrations in Barham on 10 October 2004.
Source: The Barham-Koondrook Historical Society

RED GUM STATUE RIVER WALK
The Koondrook Barham Red Gum Statue River Walk was an initiative of the local redgum industry, starting in November 2003 with the carving of Alexander "Sandy" Arbuthnot. Kevin Guillem, a world renowned chainsaw carver from Melbourne, produced most of the sculptures in the Walk.
The carvings depict wildlife and local people who are significant to the region. The tourist attraction generates significant interest among visitors to the area.
Source: www.murrayriver.com.au